PRESENTATION

Chair Dowell request Dr. Ally to share the annual financial audit for fiscal year ending June 30, 2018.

Annual Financial Audit for Fiscal Year Ended June 30, 2018

Dr. Ally reported Crowe LLP completed the College's audit and it was their third year of a second five-year contract to complete the report. The Board Audit Committee met with the auditors to review the report details. The full Board received a copy of the audit, where it was reviewed at the October 10, 2018 Committee of the Whole meeting. The audit report included all unmodified opinions with no material weaknesses or significant deficiencies; therefore, no management letter was issued. The audit includes a GFOA Certificate of Excellence for the FY2017 audit. The College has received the Certificate of Excellence for the past seven years and will submit the current audit as well for this award.

STUDENT TRUSTEE REPORT

Student Trustee Mal reported that he plans to engage student leadership in a coffee talk event to be held on November 8, 2018. Student leaders have been invited as well as any student to discuss issues or concerns. This event is supported by the Office of Student Involvement.

After the last Board meeting, Student Trustee Mall met with Deputy Chief Walker about reckless driving on campus and developed a plan on how to report these issues. The Police department is also educating the Harper community on how to react in unexpected situations. On October 16 and 17, 2018 the Police held information sessions on how to be safe, aware and prepared. Additionally, contact has been made with the theater department in conjunction with an event focused on the Columbine High School shootings.

Student Trustee Mal stated with the assistance of Mr. Vanlandingham 128 students registered to vote. SGA plans to collect donations for WINGS. Further, he mentioned when possible it is important to share information with students about the Harper referendum on the November 2018 ballot. He thanked the Board of Trustees for the responsibility they demonstrate. Lastly, there is a high school open house on October 18, 2018 that Student Trustee Mal plans to attend to share information about Harper College.

Dr. Ender added that we should all encourage everyone to vote on November 6, 2018.

FACULTY SENATE
PRESIDENT'S REPORT

Faculty Senate President Richmond updated the Board on the grant provided to faculty to develop Open Educational Resources (OER) in their classes. The grant will affect approximately 4,000 students every semester starting fall 2019. The savings to students for books is at about $600,000 per semester that comes at a one-time expense of $53,000 to the College. This savings to students does not include faculty who already use OER. The faculty involved in the grant have committed to the College to use OER for three semesters.

In response to Trustee Kelley, Richmond mentioned there is a Community of Practice also supporting the idea of OER.

Dr. Ender added that the grant funding came from Strategic Plan funds that were set aside with support from the Board.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

Dr. Ender briefly mentioned that in the September Board packet in the correspondence section there was an award letter from the National Institute for Learning Outcomes Assessment for the outstanding work Harper College is doing in learning outcomes assessment and introduced Darlene Schlenbecker and Faon Grandinetti and asked them to share information about learning outcomes assessment at Harper.

Learning Assessment

Ms. Schlenbecker thanked Dr. Ender and the Board for the opportunity to share information about learning assessment at Harper and began by sharing information from the 2007 Higher Learning Commission (HLC) comprehensive evaluation that resulted in an assessment finding. The finding was not due to the quality of the assessment but HLC's concerns were around the sustainability of the assessment work. HLC identified areas for Harper to focus on that included: formalizing the assessment work and processes; making learning outcomes publically available; establishing processes and support for implementing program and general education assessment; identifying financial and personnel support for faculty to engage in assessment; and linking program review with outcomes assessment results.

Actions taken because of these recommendations included creating a shared governance committee for assessment, development of an Outcomes Assessment Office to show assessment as part of the organizational structure, and including general education and program learning outcomes on the external website. The College also implemented and supported a five-column model of assessment to help build strong assessment plans with criteria for success, results and use of results to assist in focusing on the overall purpose of assessment, which is using results to make improvements in student learning. Harper also provides professional development to assessment fellows and hosts an internal annual assessment conference. Lastly, Program Review manuals were revised to incorporate outcomes assessment data.

In 2010, a follow-up report was submitted to HLC who responded very positively. Since 2010, an Outcomes Assessment Manager who is now the Associate Director of Outcomes Assessment and Institutional Effectiveness was hired to support the growing assessment culture, and institutional effectiveness work of the College. We also implemented a comprehensive assessment plan for General Education Learning Outcomes, assessment of the College's Institutional Effectiveness Measures and Strategic Plan goals and targets through evaluation plans. Ongoing professional development opportunities include an annual Assessment Conference, a Community of Practice in Learning Assessment, and holding workshops.

Recent feedback includes the HLC visiting team commenting on the outstanding work in assessment and the receipt of the 2018 Excellence in Assessment Designation from the National Institute of Learning Outcomes Assessment (NILOA). The College was one of five colleges and universities to receive the award that recognizes colleges that integrate assessment work broadly to engage people across campus and the use of assessment results to make improvements. The College received the recognition based on the strong work in general education assessment as the College engages a wide variety of stakeholders, uses research, and best practices in designing assessment work. Ms. Schlenbecker introduced Ms. Grandinetti to share information about the assessment work currently being done at Harper.

Ms. Grandinetti continued by explaining that assessment at Harper is comprehensive and completed on an annual cycle with all academic departments completing assessment either through program or course assessment. The College also completes annual general education assessment in a random selection of courses as well as non-instructional assessment. The purpose of assessment is to identify strengths and weakness, and then to implement changes in an effort to make meaningful improvements.

Course-level assessment is conducted in departments that do not have A.A.S. degrees and courses that have been identified as part of the 0-15 initiative, which are transfer courses. Participation rates reached 100% in 2016-17 with all 26 departments completing assessment. One example comes from the Chemistry department where Julie Ellefson champions the assessment. Over time, results reported have been mixed. This semester with the help of the Outcomes Assessment Office additional research is being conducted to look at whether there are other interventions that can be put in place to help their students. One technique being considered is something learned from Sandra McGuire, the keynote speaker at the annual Assessment Conference, where faculty help students by teaching them how to learn.

Program-level assessment is conducted in departments with A.A.S. degrees and career certificates of 30 hours or more. Participation rates reached 100% in 2015-16 with all 37 departments completing assessment. One example comes from the Graphic Arts department where the program chair Patty Bruner champions the assessment. Graphic Arts assesses throughout the degree program as well as in the dual credit courses in the high schools to ensure consistency across the different modes of delivery. In a previous year assessment, results indicated that students in early courses were not successful in all aspects of the preflight process that confirms digital files are valid and correctly formatted for print. The preflight process is a vital component to ensure students are ready for the workforce and subsequent courses. The department made some changes in the early courses and saw assessment results improve in the early courses as well as in later courses. Even with the positive results, the department continues to assess preflight, as it is vital for the success of the student. The Graphic Arts program meets with their advisory council to review assessment results and curriculum regularly, which is also a best practice and NILOA considered a strength.

Further, the five General Education Learning Outcomes are Communication, Critical Thinking, Diverse Perspectives and Cultures, Information Literacy, and Quantitative Reasoning. All credit courses are mapped to the General Education Outcomes. General Education Outcomes are regularly assessed on a five-year cycle. Assessments are conducted using a random selection of courses focusing on students nearing graduation. After the assessment is completed, results are analyzed, and an improvement plan is developed and implemented. One example comes from the 2016-17 Diverse Perspectives and Cultures assessment that was conducted in courses that meet the World Cultures and Diversity graduation requirement. The results were not at the expected level where surprisingly only 41.7% of student stated they discussed these topics never, very little or only outside of class. The improvement plan developed focuses on faculty development in these areas. Faculty will be provided information on how to have discussions and appropriate conversations with students. To assist faculty, a graduate equivalency course is scheduled for spring 2019. Additionally, a Community of Practice is focusing on Diverse Perspectives and Cultures this academic year.

Ms. Grandinetti also explained meaningful assessment requires that information be used to make improvements. As part of the process, if the criterion for success has not been met, departments must identify improvement to be made. Many departments choose to make improvements even if the criterion for success has been met and this is a good indicator for a strong assessment culture. Priorities for this year include implementing a General Education Advisory Committee, improving co-curricular learning assessment, continuing efforts to communicate with both employees and students, expanding professional development, and continuing to implement General Education assessments and improvements. The General Education Advisory Committee will be comprised of individuals from four-year schools, dual credit instructors, employers, students, faculty, and staff to discuss assessment results and what can be done to make improvements. Co-curricular assessment was identified by both HLC and NILOA as an area for improvement. Co-curricular learning is learning that take place outside student's regular time in the classroom. For example, many of the clubs and organizations have developed learning outcomes. The next step is to work with Student Involvement to assess these.

In response to Trustee Stack, Dr. Ender indicated that a current assessment on the effectiveness of the new advising model is not in place. Ms. Schlenbecker explained that with the Community College Survey on Student Engagement conducted in spring 2018, the College sought baseline information about advising and counseling. Dr. Ender echoed Ms. Schlenbecker and added the importance of establishing this baseline. Further, Dr. Ender mentioned the General Education Outcomes Course Map was an enormous effort to prepare and is invaluable.

In response to Trustee Kelley, Ms. Grandinetti further explained the award was received from the National Institute for Learning Outcomes Assessment based in Champaign, IL. The organization is a national assessment think tank. The application explained how Harper believes it is excellent in assessment and focused on the General Education assessment at the College. In the last four years, 20 colleges have received the award with only four community colleges being awarded the designation.

Dr. Ender continued and mentioned there have been approximately 20-30 information sessions about the referendum item Harper is placing on the November 6, 2018 ballot. These sessions have been conducted at several locations across the district. Additionally, the College has met with the Daily Herald to present information about the referendum.

The annual Diversity Symposium, which focused on the Latinx initiatives, was well attended. The attendance at this annual event has steadily been growing. Dr. Ender acknowledged and thanked Dr. Mercado and the work she is doing to deliver information and providing a clear message to the community about things that can be done to help the Latinx population.

Chair Dowell acknowledged Drs. Ken and Cathy Ender for being the guests of honor at the Women In Need Growing Stronger (WINGS)

Gala on October 6, 2018. Chair Dowell further expressed his appreciation to Dr. Ender for all the work he has done for both Harper and the community.
