PRESENTATION

Harper Instructors on Tour:
Lilly Teaching Conference

Dr. Proctor requested Robert Allare, Adjunct Faculty Level II, Business and Social Science, and Ana Contreras, Adjunct Faculty Level II, Liberal Arts, to share their experience at the Lilly Teaching Conference.

Mr. Allare provided an overview of the Academy for Teaching Excellence Community of Practice (CoP) workshops given at the Lilly Conference in Austin, Texas, at the beginning of the year. Lilly is an international teaching and learning organization that focuses on evidence-based teaching in higher education. The CoP focused their attention to engaging students in the classroom through innovative teaching assessment methods. At the conference the CoP presented two workshops, one was on the benefits of podcasting in the college classroom. The benefits of podcasting are meeting students in their own space, to flip the classroom instead of lecturing to the students they relate what they have learned about the topic, and it provides a resource to other professors at no cost.

Ms. Contreras continued by explaining the Immediate Feedback Assessment Technique (IFAT) scorecard provides an innovative approach to multiple choice quizzes that requires students to collaborate with each other and debate a topic until they answer a multiple-choice question correctly. The IFAT scorecard was presented to a well-attended breakout session at the Lilly Conference. The CoP used the IFAT scorecard in ten classes in six different disciplines. At the end of the semester student were surveyed and asked about their perceptions. The responses were positive, and students reflected they liked using the scorecard as they were able to debate content. Both the Lilly Conference and the CoP has allowed the group to grow as educators. The CoP also collaborated with the Makerspace on campus to make giveaway prizes that were used at the Lily Conference. The CoP has enriched their work and provided them support with like-minded colleagues who are passionate educators and prioritize supporting students to achieve their goals. She closed by reflecting the CoP is a group of adjunct educators focused on student center teaching.

Chair Stack thanked Mr. Allare and Ms. Contreras for their informative presentation.

She continued by thanking student member Santafe-Zambrano for his service and leadership. Further she reflected he had grown throughout the year and his advocacy for students has been stellar at local, state and federal levels. She welcomed student member Hildebrand and looks forward to working with him as he represents the students.

The College is currently preparing the FY2021 budget and looking at new programs to address emerging workforce needs. She thanked the fall academic planning committee led by Dr. Coons for providing the best approach given the current circumstances.

STUDENT SUCCESS REPORT

Academy for Teaching Excellence: Faculty and Student Success in the Rapid Transition to Online Instruction

Dr. Proctor requested Dr. Mike Bates, Dean of Teaching, Learning and Distance Education, and Dr. Stephanie Whalen, Chair of The Academy for Teaching Excellence, Associate Professor, English and Interdisciplinary Studies, to present on the rapid transition to online instruction.

Dr. Bates began by sharing how the Academy for Teaching Excellence centers on supporting faculty with professional development and on March 12 the Academy began supporting faculty for the transition to online instruction. In one day, the College went from 260 online courses to 2,258 online/remote courses. Since March 12, the Academy has engaged with over 400 faculty. Over the past couple of years' online enrollment trends have consistently increased. Currently, over half the faculty are certified to teach online instruction and the Academy is working on establishing standards for new online professional development courses, for faculty to teach online and for course design review. A five-year plan has been implemented to review the design of all online courses. The certification course to teach online is a two-week program and to date over 100 new faculty have completed this course and there are more sections being added for the summer.

During the faculty retreat in March, the Academy was able to support faculty to adapt to online instruction. The Academy worked on new protocols and approaches to support requests for online instruction support. A webpage was quickly developed as a one-stop resource for faculty to record lectures, to facilitate live instruction, to do collaborative learning, to assist with exam proctoring and other necessary support tools. A strategy to ensure a consistent student experience that helps build out the learning experience to be centered for both the user and student. In April, the Academy released a fully online webinar series to support faculty with pedagogy and the technical support for online instruction. The series consist of six webinars and 134 faculty have participated in at least one webinar.

The collaboration with Access and Disability Services, the Testing Center, Information Technology and Continuing Education during this transition has been remarkable. From creating materials that are digitally accessible for all learners to evaluating and sharing information about platforms to deliver live instruction.

Dr. Whalen highlighted two faculty that have served as leaders and shared their knowledge with other faculty during these past couple of months: Karega Cooper, Math and Dave Braunschweig, Computer Information Systems. Furthermore, faculty reflections were shared from William Magoon-Makela, Fashion Design; Susan Stack, Mass Communications; and Josue Nunex, Clinical Supervisor, Nursing.

The plans during summer and fall for professional development include additional sections for the course teaching online successfully certification, instructional designers continuing to develop summer and fall course templates, outreach targeting new online instructors, continual review of course development and design reviews, ensuring the essential features checklist is being completed, and developing of a fully online AA degree and Start Smart courses. In closing, Dr. Whalen thanked the Board and Dr. Proctor for their continued support.

In response to Member Dowell, Dr. Bates stated the preliminary survey results indicate students appreciate the availability and responsiveness of instructors.

In response to Student Member Hildebrand, Dr. Proctor explained the College is seeking guidance on how students can complete fall and spring labs and clinical course work.

In response to Member Johnson, Dr. Bates responded prior to the pandemic that faculty were required to have completed the certification course to teach online. The requirement is currently waived and will be reinstated when the College goes back to face-to-face instruction. Currently, over 65% of full-time faculty and close to 50% of adjunct faculty have completed the certification course.

In response to Chair Stack, Dr. Coons confirmed the College procured 200 Chromebooks that were deployed to students. These are now being returned and disinfected to be made available for summer students and this process will occur at the end of summer as well. Emergency funding from the Foundation helped some students purchase their own computers.

Dr. Proctor reflected that prior to the pandemic the College was positioning itself to strengthen the online presence by creating a completely online AA degree and portable general education core curriculum, and these plans are progressing. Additionally, she noted the correspondence from the Achieving the Dream coaches regarding the Strategic Planning Conference and thanked Dr. Coons and Ms.

Schlenbecker for their leadership to engage stakeholders that has led to the development of six strategic goal statements. Dr. Mercado is aware of the Achieving the Dream correspondence and working on defining equity through the shared governance process.

Board Committee and Liaison Report

Alumni Liaison Report: Member Mundt reported the Harper College Alumni Program partnered with WHCM 88.3 student radio to successfully host the second annual "WHCM Alumni & Friends Membership Drive" in early March. This year's drive celebrated WHCM's 20 years on the airwaves. The drive raised over $3,500 from 78 donors to support development activities for radio students.

Secondly there was a Cap Décor Party hosted by the Alumni Program and Student Involvement for graduates as a virtual event. Graduating students were invited to decorate their graduation cap and share with Harper College via social media or by emailing. Graduates showed their pride, happiness and humor through the nearly 30 photo submissions.

Foundation Liaison Report: Member Hill shared the reflections of a scholarship donor and scholarship recipient sent each other virtual "shout-outs." The Beaubien Family Scholarship Fund recipient, Yoselin Lopez has graduated from Harper's Dental Hygiene program. In her graduation profile Yoselin gave a "shout-out" to her scholarship donor, Dee Beaubien, writing, "Another big thank you to the scholarship sponsors that have believed in me even when I didn't believe in myself."

Dee sent Yoselin a "shout-out" writing, ". . . a really hearty congratulation - you have worked so hard and are a credit to your family, to Harper, to your friends and to all who have worked with you along the way - I am so sorry you don't get a traditional graduation but everything is really 'stuck' right now until this all clears - hope it is soon - I and my family send you all the best! Congrats - and please say congratulations to your family and Erick as well! Dee"

The following is a little about Yoselin from her graduation profile page: What does graduation mean to you?

As a first-generation Latina Dreamer, graduating as a dental hygienist represents the culmination of hard work, patience, and determination that my family and I have endured through this journey. Becoming a dental hygienist is no easy feat and even though I'm not completely done yet, I am proud of how far I have come.

What's the next step in your career or education?

I hope to pass my board exams and obtain my license in order to begin providing care for my future patients. I plan on continuing school afterwards and getting my bachelor's degree.

Who would you like to thank?

My parents came from El Salvador to the United States with hopes and dreams of a better future for our family. They came with a dream that one day their kids would go to school and graduate from college. Without the support from them I would not be where I am today. I love you more than words are able to describe. This is all thanks to them. My brothers Romeo and Henry as well as my sister Nathalia. Thank you to my boyfriend, Erick, for being with me through every single step of this journey. Thank you to the rest of my family and friends who have supported me by being my patient, with words of encouragement or through any other way. Your help has not gone unnoticed. Thank you to all of my instructors that have helped shape the professional that I am becoming. Another big thank you to the scholarship sponsors that have believed in me even when I didn't believe in myself. Most importantly, I thank God, He has never let go of my hand and has picked me up whenever I have felt like giving up. I will continue to move forward and I know that this is only the beginning.

Secondly, through the efforts of the Foundation Board, donors, faculty, staff, and the Board of Trustees the emergency aid was developed to provide the necessary support to students during the onset of COVID-19. As of today, there has been $254,546.00 raised to help 554 students. The average award was $439.00

ICCTA Liaison Report: Member Kelley reported he has attended joint board meetings of the American Association of Community Colleges and the American Community College Trustees. Mental health issues facing students at this time continues to rise and he commended Harper for reaching out to all students. Additionally, he recognized Harper for providing the necessary technology to student in need that promotes student success for all.

Member Johnson added at the ICCTA meeting in April it was stated the general assembly will be back in session to develop a budget and the state plans to fund the MAP program.
