PRESENTATION
Shared Governance at Harper College

Dr. Proctor asked Dr. Maria Coons, Vice President and Board Liaison and David Richmond, Faculty Senate President, to provide an overview of shared governance at Harper College.

Dr. Coons began by stating shared governance was historically a way to ensure faculty voices were heard. Over time other employee groups became involved. The four tenants Harper follows for shared governance are collegiality, meaning respectful dialogue; openness meaning all meetings are open to everyone; transparency, meaning everyone can view agendas, minutes, and recommendations; and timely, meaning action is taken within prescribed timeframes.

Shared governance is important as it is one element the Higher Learning Commission looks at during the reaffirmation of accreditation. They review evidence of a defined process for developing and policies. Additionally, it is a forum for employees and students to be able to provide input.

Dr. Coons described the structure for shared governance at Harper. The Board of Trustees is responsible for policy approval and can also ask for policies to be developed through the shared governance structure. There are 18 committees in total, two policy councils that oversee 15 other committees and one oversight committee that oversees the operations of the shared governance system. The Board of Trustees is the final approver of policy recommendations. The student success committees primarily focus on curriculum, student life, and conduct. The institutional resources committees are looking at diversity, equity, and inclusion, wellness, and strategic planning.

Mr. Richmond explained committees meet regularly, require quorums, and make policy-related and non-policy related recommendations. Policy recommendations are vetted collegewide with two readings and presented to the Board for their approval. Non-policy recommendations are reviewed and considered by the appropriate administrator. During the pandemic all committee meetings have been fully online. He continued by sharing the variety of different matters the committees regularly review and unique matters they work on throughout the year. This year the Coordination and Review Committee that provides oversight for the governance structure is reviewing committee membership to ensure the correct people are included on all committees. Additionally, the Coordination and Review committee assigns all Board policies to a shared governance committee for review.
He closed by sharing there are almost 250 employees and students involved in shared governance and the operational support for the committees comes from support staff. He thanked Ms. Coney for the support she provides to the Coordination and Review Committee and the entire shared governance operation.

Chair Stack thanked Dr. Coons and Mr. Richmond for an informative report.

STUDENT TRUSTEE REPORT

Student Trustee Mal shared a kindness event took place where students wrote positive messages on post-it notes and placed them on the doors in Building D. The purpose of the event was to spread kindness and positivity. Pictures of the event were shared on social media as well. He did a similar event in high school and one note that he read helped him give a presentation that he was not fully prepared for and calmed his nerves prior to the presentation. These little notes can make a big difference for the reader.

The Student Government Association (SGA) is looking to increase student participation in SGA. At the last meeting students talked about ideas on how to approach students and communicate how they can get involved. He is certain SGA will be able to make changes in the future.

FACULTY SENATE PRESIDENT’S REPORT

Faculty Senate President Richmond shared he is thankful that all the buildings at Harper are open for everyone. He thanked the Board for their dedication and wished everyone a happy Thanksgiving.

PRESIDENT’S REPORT

Dr. Proctor shared the College was selected as one of the 150 institutions for the $1 million Aspen Prize for Community College Excellence. The College is honored to be selected and she acknowledged the dedication of faculty and staff in supporting student success. The application is being prepared to be considered for the top 10 exemplary community colleges.

The official opening of the Cultural Center is November 18. From the time she began at Harper, she consistently heard the Cultural Center needed to be present again on campus. The center creates a space for people from various backgrounds to engage in meaningful ways.

The College began adjusting social distancing protocols from six feet to three feet for non-instructional spaces. For the spring term, classrooms will also be adjusted accordingly. The goal is to have at least 70% of sections offered in a face-to-face or blended format. Expanded COVID testing is now being offered to community members as well as students and employees to ensure the College complies with the Governor’s mandate.

As the College increases on-campus presence, ideas to rebuild community will be discussed at the President’s Learning Council by the Core Values Strategic Planning goal team and the Human Resources/Wellness shared governance committee.

She concluded by reflecting the month of November reminds us of the importance of giving thanks and the opportunity to connect with family and friends and wished everyone a happy Thanksgiving.

STUDENT SUCCESS REPORT

Harper’s Drone Program

Dr. Proctor asked Mukila Maitha, Associate Professor, Business and Social Science and Darice Trout, Interim Dean, Business and Social Science, to share the information about the drone program at the College.

Ms. Trout shared her first experience with the Drone program was when she was invited to Busse Woods to fly a fixed wing drone and with support and encouragement from Mr. Maitha, adjunct faculty, and students. She stated the drone program was developed in spring 2020 under the leadership of professor Maitha to fulfill the growing opportunities and workforce needs. The Federal Aviation Association selected Harper to be part of the collegiate training initiative. Additionally, Mr. Maitha has positioned Harper to apply for the National Science Foundation’s Advanced Technical Education grant. She thanked the Board; Dr. Janosik, provost; Dr. Harris, previous dean of business and social science; marketing and communications for their support of the drone program.

Mr. Maitha began by sharing the drone program is the first aviation program at Harper and it is one of two programs accredited by the FAA as part of their collegiate training initiative. The marketing department has identified more than 500 potential zip codes from which the College can recruit students. The program aligns with both the Teaching and Learning and Student Success Strategic Plan goals by offering coursework in multiple modalities with open educational resource materials where students are provided with the drones and the software. The curriculum has a comprehensive unmanned aerial system focus. The program also aligns with geospatial technology allowing students to apply what they have learned in the field.

The drone program is a 16-hour certificate that prepares students to receive their drone license to be able to work in a variety of fields such as drone pilots, image analysts and remote sensing technicians. Harper has been selected to be a part of the National Science Foundation Advanced Technical Education grant that will position Harper to be a learning hub for both students and faculty.

Angelica Avalos shared her story via video. She has completed both the drone and geographic information systems (GIS) programs. Her experience includes working at Harper as a supplemental instructor for the GIS program as well as in facilities management. She then worked at the Lake County Forest Preserve and most recently at the Morton Arboretum where she can use her knowledge from both programs.

Fernanda de Souza shared his story via video as well. He is a chemical safety engineer, certified emergency manager, and certified FAA drone pilot. He is also a current student in the drone and GIS programs and plans to work in emergency management using drones to assess damage in areas affected by natural disasters. He concluded by stating he was grateful to Harper for offering him this unique opportunity to advance his professional career.

Ms. Coney shared she received her associates in general studies, a GIS certificate and drone certificate from Harper, and was a former supplemental instructor. Currently she is a Harper tutor, a geography graduate student at Northern Illinois University (NIU), and a teaching assistant at NIU. She plans to help others with hazards analysis and threat mitigation using what she has learned. Additionally, she stated the education she received from Harper was very innovative and comprehensive and that as a student she was able to tailor her projects to her passions in her field of interest. She closed by sharing she is a first-generation college graduate.

In response to Trustee Johnson, Mr. Maitha stated the drone program is a 16-credit hour certificate that can be completed in three to four semesters.

In response to Trustee Mundt, Mr. Maitha shared after taking the first class, students are eligible to take the FAA exam and all twelve students have passed their exam.

Trustees thanked Ms. Trout, Mr. Maitha, and Ms. Cooney for an outstanding presentation.

Ms. Tashjian shared she has been an adjunct faculty member at Harper since 2003 and currently a member of the negotiation team for the adjunct faculty association. She stated adjunct faculty are 70% of the instructional faculty and teach 50.7% of the course sections at Harper. Adjunct faculty feel undervalued and not respected. Additionally, many adjunct faculty hold doctorates and are more qualified than the full-time faculty yet the adjunct pay scale is at a lower rate than full-time starting salaries. Therefore, the adjunct faculty union is requesting respect from the College and a more equitable pay scale.

Chair Stack thanked her for her comments.

Mr. Bushmann stated the adjunct faculty do not feel valued particularly in terms of equity and compensation.

Chair Stack thank him for his comments.
Mr. Allare stated he is the president of the adjunct faculty union, has been at Harper for 12 years, and an alumnus. He acknowledged that equity is woven into the College with an executive cabinet position, the strategic plan, and mission. He sees that nationally adjuncts are seen as not quite a full-time person and are disproportionately paid. The highest paying adjunct is paid $1,500 less per class than the lowest level full-time faculty. He works 48 hours at three different institutions as an adjunct professor and makes less than a full-time faculty member. At Harper he is involved just as much as any full-time faculty member by sitting on three different committees, serving as president of the adjunct faculty union, and holds office hours. He sees that equitable pay is a blind spot for all community colleges and hopes that Harper can address the disparity of pay between adjuncts and full-time faculty.

Chair Stack thanked him for his comments.

PUBLIC COMMENTS

Mr. Meyer introduced himself and reminded the Board of the public comment that he made at the October Board meeting, in which he expressed concerns about a candidate for employment and asked the Board to pause on the new employee’s contract until the employee could be fully vetted. Mr. Meyer stated that he wished to speak about various statements in October Board Exhibit XI-D that are erroneous and false. During Mr. Meyer’s comments, Mr. Meyer was reminded of Board Policy 01.25.27 and its prohibition on making public comments which are abusive or disruptive to the decorum of the meeting. Mr. Meyer inquired about a written submission that he had made to the Board. Chair Stack acknowledged receipt of Mr. Meyer’s submission and stated that the Board is taking his submission under review.

Board Committee and Liaison Report

Alumni Liaison Report: Member Mundt reported the Harper Alumni Program in partnership with the Harper's Job Placement Resource Center (JPRC) and the Continuing Professional Education will host the career focused webinar for alumni: Switching Gears in Your Career on Thursday, January 13 from noon to 1 p.m. Alumni will learn strategies and tips for changing careers in today’s environment from the JPRC and get information on Harper’s Continuing Professional Education program paths as a means to thinking of new career opportunities.

Foundation Liaison Report: Member Hill shared the Foundation has received over $240,000 in donations for the creation of seven new scholarships since July. These scholarships include:

- Datla Family Endowed scholarship / for students entering the University Center
- Jackie LeFevre Endowed Scholarship
- Kimberly Family Achieving Dreams Scholarship / for students entering the University Center
- League of Women Voters League of Women Voters - Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Buffalo Grove Scholarship
- Lisa and Joseph Lynn Scholarship for Adult Students
- STEM Achievement Scholarship
- Wintrust Scholarship

A HOPE Scholarship Alumna Arianna Mormino (A.S. 2019) presented during Harper College’s International Education week on Wednesday, November 17 at 1 p.m. Her talk titled, Climate Change Implications on the Environment and Wildlife in Southwest Florida: Observations from a recent Harper graduate, will discuss her work at CROW clinic, a wildlife rehabilitation program in Southwest Florida, and how climate change has impacted the animals that the clinic has worked with. Her talk will highlight how changes in climate have affected the regional environment in Southwest Florida and how communities are working to tackle the problem.

She concluded by reminding everyone the Pepper Family Foundation Academic Support Center dedication event will be held on Friday, November 19 from 11 a.m. to noon at the David K. Hill Family Library.

ICCTA Liaison Report: Trustee Kelley asked Trustee Johnson to provide the highlights from the recent ICCTA meeting.

Trustee Johnson shared there was representation from 32 of the community colleges at the recent ICCTA meeting. At the roundtables the trustees responded to three questions that included:

- How is your college dealing with declining enrollment?
- What new programs has your college created for students and the community to meet their demands?
- How has your college dealt with COVID in the pandemic?

He shared responses to the above three questions many of which were familiar as Harper has done the same things and some were unique. One unique response to declining enrollment is one college placed counselors in high schools to discuss the programs available at the college. A unique response to the new programing question were some have created green energy programs including solar panels and wind turbines. Many colleges shared varying information as to how they are dealing with COVID in the pandemic.

Lastly, he shared during the lunch he heard from another community college president that Harper is a model for what others should be doing. He attributed this as a testament to Harper’s excellent staff and faculty.
