Important dates to remember for second semester registration; schedules in mail

Harper's Course Schedule for Winter-Spring 1972 is now in the mail to all households in the college district and to households in the north shore area.

Second semester classes begin on January 31. All courses to be offered are listed in the schedule as well as detailed information on registration procedures.

Telephone registration is available to part-time students (those taking less than 12 semester hours of credit courses) who have attended Harper during the fall, 1971 semester or have received a letter of acceptance from the college. They will be able to register by telephone by dialing 359-2500 between the hours of 10 a.m. and 7 p.m. on January 19 and 20.

Part-time students who do not register by telephone can register at the college on January 27, 28, and 29. Hours on Thursday and Friday are from 6:30 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. On Saturday morning, registration is from 9 a.m. until 11:30 a.m.

Full-time students (those taking more than 12 hours of credit courses) will register on January 27 and 28 from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m.

Students register alphabetically by their last name in accordance with the times listed in the Winter-Spring Course Schedule. Anyone not receiving a copy of the schedule at home may obtain one by calling the Admissions Office at Harper, 359-4200, extension 207.

$14,780 Endowment for Humanities grant received for instructional media

Harper College is the recipient of a $14,780 grant awarded by the National Endowment for the Humanities last month for the "Design, Production, and Evaluation of Multi-Media Instructional Materials for Use in the Community College General Humanities Course."

The project will be directed by Dr. Richard Lockwood, professor of humanities at Harper.

NEH, an agency of the Federal Government, was created by the National Humanities Act of 1965 (P.L. 89-209) "to help thinkers, teachers, scholars, and writers develop the humanities as sources of insight into human problems."

Among the opportunities offered under NEH, grants are made available "to improve the teaching of the humanities through the development of college and university curricula and through innovative projects at any educational level."

On December 2, Dr. Lockwood presented a discussion of the project, and a classroom simulation using an abbreviated version of one of the three units being developed, at the Wednesday Noon Club, a monthly forum to discuss issues of common interest at Harper.

Area high school students get career boost in unique Harper survey program

Students attending high schools in the Harper College district have an opportunity to sample career fields in engineering and health services through two unique survey courses offered by the college.

"Students have the opportunity to earn high school credit while learning about these fields without spending months or years of time on any one phase," explains Dr. Robert Cormack, Harper's dean of career programs.

The high school survey program as administered at Harper is a very new concept. Dr. Cormack reports that inquiries about the program have been received from colleges in Hawaii, Texas, New York, Michigan, Massachusetts, and Canada.

The Health Occupations Orientation survey course was introduced in 1970, with 26 students enrolled. Six of these students will pursue a health occupations career. This fall, 35 students are enrolled in the course, which involves three class hours a week. Health occupations coordinator, Mrs. Nancy Tamul, expects to extend the class hours to five a week and include cooperative work experience next semester.

The class has toured Cook County Hospital, Hines Veterans Hospital, the Clearbrook Center for the Retarded in Rolling Meadows, the resource room for the blind at Wheeling High School, as well as other institutions. Guest speakers have described health occupations, including physical therapist, dietician, pathologist, and others.

The Survey in Engineering Technology course was launched this fall with 11 high school students enrolled. Students have learned about numerical control technology, electronics technology, and mechanical engineering. Expansion of the course for the second semester will add the field of architectural technology to the overview.

Students from high school districts 211 and 214 are currently enrolled in the survey programs. Barrington high school district 224 will participate next year, according to current plans.

CAMPUS EVENTS

Jan. 7 College Dance: Segal Schwall will be featured in the College Center Lounge. Hours are 8:30 p.m. to 12 p.m. Admission: $1.00 for students with ID card and $2.50 for the public.

Jan. 10 Lecture: Dr. Rollo May, psychoanalyst and author of Love and Will will discuss "The End and the Beginning of an Era." Dr. May is an existential therapist who espouses the principle that awareness of death is not opposed to, but essential to life. He brings his background of psychotherapy and theology into focus. Admission: $2.00 for adults and $1.00 for students and personnel with ID card. College Center Lounge, 8 p.m.

Jan. 11 Rock Concert: "Long Time Acomin'" will entertain in the College Center Lounge from 12 noon until 1 p.m. Free and open to the public.

Jan. 12 Lecture: Daniel Walker, one of the Democratic candidates for governor of Illinois, will speak in the College Center Lounge at 12:30 p.m. Free and open to the public.

Join the Harper continuing "educlub" add spice to life or grow a green thumb

Community residents who sign up for Harper's non-credit continuing education courses will have options which can put a little spice into their lives, gear their lives toward business success, lead them into green-thumb fields, and give them the "zap!...bam!...pow!" of Judo and Karate.

Registration for classes begins January 3 in room A213. Hours are from 4 p.m. to 9 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays and from 9 a.m. until noon on Saturdays.

Fees for most courses run from $12 to $15 for residents of the Harper College district (#512). Starting dates for classes run from the last week in January through the first of March.

Nineteen courses leading toward success in business have been programmed into the schedule ranging from How To Manage Your Business and Patent Law Seminar to Computer Operator. Eight classes in office skills are offered. Even an individual's money can be put to work after learning about the "how to's" of Investing.

A little -- or a lot -- of spice can tantalize palates in Gourmet Cooking and Baking. Explanations of recipes and preparation of special dishes served in European countries will be the fare in Foods of Other Lands.

The field of "green-thumb things" will offer four courses which cultivate gardening, landscaping, and methods of dealing with plant pests in a safe manner. To help ensure room on earth for green-thumbers, a course in Environmental Pollution will deal with elements and perils of pollution.

Persons interested in leaving the earth (temporarily), such as potential pilots and stewardesses, will be given preparation toward their goals. Airline Career Preparation I and II offer not only stewardess career information but also cover reservation and ticket agent responsibilities. Potential private or commercial pilots are given information which can prepare them for the FAA exam in Ground Aviation and Meteorology for Pilots.

Whether planning to travel or not, students will find that courses in conversational French, German, Russian and Spanish give the tongue a new twist -- and lead to better communication with foreign-speaking persons.

Others will communicate through color and form in courses in Painting, Textile Design, Weaving, Ceramics and Sculpture.

There are courses in Banjo and Guitar for beginning and advanced students. Skill with the fingers is also needed for Home Construction and Remodeling, TV Repair, and Lingerie Construction.

Especially for women are courses in Social Poise and Appearance and Fashion Workshop. In the Workshop, students will learn about current and up-coming fashion trends, haute couture designers, design principles, color, and textiles. Individual critique is also offered.

Feb. 4 College Dance: The first dance of the second semester will feature two groups, "Flash" and "Shadows of Night." Admission for Harper students is $1.00 with ID card. Public admission is $2.00. 9 p.m. until midnight. College Center Lounge.

Feb. 10 Concert: The public is invited free of charge to hear the Schaumburg High School Jazz Band from 12 noon until 1 p.m. in the College Center Lounge.

Feb. 11 Concert: Paul Winter, alto saxophonist who has made his name in classical jazz, leads the six-man "Winter Consort." The group uses twelve-string guitars, Indian tabla and sitar, as well as saxophone, classical guitar, cello, oboe, bass, and percussion. Traditional elements of music -- from Gregorian chants through the Renaissance, Baroque, Classical, and Romantic periods -- are combined with the more modern elements. College Center Lounge, 8 p.m. Free to Harper students, staff, and faculty with ID card. Public admission is $2.00 for adults and $1.00 for students.

Feb. 25 College Dance: From 9 p.m. until midnight in College Center Lounge. Admission is $1.00 for students and $2.00 for the public.

Adult basic education builds language skills for native and foreign speaking

Two evening courses in adult basic education will be taught at Harper, both beginning the second week in January.

Language Development and Reading Development will be taught, at no cost to the individual enrolled, for those who have English as a second language and would like to develop their basic skills.

Language Development stresses speaking, reading, and writing. Reading Development is for those who lack basic reading skills or need to develop their vocabulary, comprehension, and speed. It is aimed for those who have not completed eighth grade, who have English as a second language, or intend to take a GED review course.

Classes for Language Development are held on Wednesday evenings. For levels of ability are scheduled, and classes begin at 6:30 p.m.

Reading Development is held Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 8:10 to 9:40 p.m.

Further information may be obtained by telephoning Mrs. Lopez at 359-4200, extension 265.

First real estate career course yields triple expected response; more to come

Harper's first course offering in a new career program in Real Estate this semester attracted nearly triple the number of expected registrants, and the college plans to repeat the same course next semester as well as to add two additional courses.

According to Charles F. Falk, chairman of the Business Division, the Principles of Real Estate had 101 students enrolled.

"We expected somewhere around 35 students," Falk states. "This response more than validated the expectations of an advisory committee composed of real estate professionals which encouraged us to offer real estate education," he explains.

Second semester classes begin on January 31, 1972. In addition to repeating the Principles course, the college's Business Division will offer Real Estate Law and Finance and Real Estate Marketing and Brokerage.

Each of the courses offers three hours of college credit.

RES 120 Principles of Real Estate will be taught Tuesday evenings from 6:25 to 9:05 p.m. beginning February 1.

RES 121 Real Estate Marketing and Brokerage will be held Monday evenings from 6:25 to 9:05 p.m. beginning January 31.

RES 123 Real Estate Law and Finance is scheduled for Wednesday evenings from 6:25 to 9:05 p.m. beginning February 2.
