Six candidates vie for two Board seats in Saturday, April 8 Harper election

Six candidates, including one incumbent and one former Harper trustee, are running for two seats for three-year terms on the Harper College Board of Trustees in an election to be held on Saturday, April 8.

Polling places will be open from 12 noon until 7 p.m.

Running for a second term on the Board is incumbent Lawrence B. Monts of Mount Prospect, electrical contractor, who won his seat a day after his twenty-first birthday while still at student at Harper in 1965. Richard L. Johnson, who has served on the Board since its inception in 1965, will not run for reelection.

Incumbent Monts is currently serving on the Board of Trustees' budget committee and the student unrest committee.

Lofti E. Hutchings, who was appointed to fill out one year of Abraham Bernstein's term when he resigned from the Board in 1967, ran for a two-year term in 1969 and won. He lost in the 1970 election. Dr. Hutchings is engineering research and development coordinator for Imperial Oil Products in Des Plaines and lives in Mount Prospect, where his wife serves as librarian for the public library. The Hutchings are the parents of two daughters now in college.

Mrs. Rochelle Veitch, also of Mount Prospect, has second position on the ballot. She is the mother of four children ranging in ages from six to thirteen, is a student at Harper, and has been active in volunteer work during her married life. Activities have included block capitals, Boy Scout den mother, Sunday school teacher, secretary of her local homeowners' association, and other civic pursuits.

Candidate Howard L. Pollard of Arlington Heights is director of administrative services in the field of personnel for United Air Lines, where he has worked for 32 years. A resident of the area for 11 years, Mr. Pollard has strong interests in schools, scouting, and church work. He is currently president of the Teachers-Parent Council of Arlington High School and is a board member of his church. The Pollards have three children.

Mrs. Marilyn Marier, mother of two and resident of Arlington Heights, was the fifth to file. She is vice president of the Volunteer Service Bureau of Northwest Cook County, member of the Arlington Heights Cultural Commission, and is active in the League of Women Voters, having served as vice president of the Arlington Heights/Mount Prospect chapter. She is also on the Women's Advisory Committee, a group established to determine needs of homeowners of the area in order to set up women's educational programs at Harper College.

Last to file was Michael L. Busston, currently instructor of journalism at Harper who is resigning his position as of June 3, 1972 when his contract expires to pursue the area of sports information at a college or in private business. Mr. Busston and his wife Susan are residents of Schaumburg.

Fifty-two precincts will be manned for the election. Harper College polling places are the same as for local school district elections being held in the same day, as follows: District 19 -- Spring Grove, Palatine, Rolling Meadows; District 21 -- Arlington Heights, Buffalo Grove, Prospect Heights, Wheeling; District 23 -- Prospect Heights; District 25 -- Arlington Heights; District 26 -- Mount Prospect; District 28 -- Hanover Park, Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg; District 27 -- Mount Prospect; District 39 -- Arlington Heights, Des Plaines, Elk Grove Village, Mount Prospect; and Barrington High School District 224 -- Barrington, Barrington Hills, Carpentersville, and North Barrington.

Residents are requested to check their local newspapers for polling place addresses in their precincts.

LRC media turns on today's busy students, especially those in career program fields

The nursing program headquartered in the science building on Harper's campus has kept a hot line humming with the latest audio-visual and library instructional aids from the Learning Resources Center across the way.

"Nursing program faculty and students make extensive use of our wide range of media," said Dr. George Voegel, dean of the Center. "During the fall, 1971 semester, nursing instructors placed 785 library items on reserve. These include journals, articles, and books."

Records show a use of 677 of these resources by 130 associate degree nursing students and 35 practical nurses studying.

According to Miss Joanne Heiny, associate degree nursing coordinator, there are 177 articles on reserve. "It is a tremendous job for library personnel, but textbooks go out so quickly, and we do use them," she said.

The LRC audio-visual resources are also kept in use at the Center or in the classrooms. Students sip over to the lower level of the Learning Resources Center who can individually view three-minute 8 mm film loops showing such nursing techniques as "Delivery Room Care of the Newborn" to "Nose Drop Medication."

Instructors check out packets containing four film strips with records for classroom showing on subjects such as "Patient Care."

During the 1971 fall semester, 20 rental films were shown twice to nursing classes. The films are rented through the LRC instructional services department.

As well as viewing films and video tape on Harper's closed circuit television, nursing students created a video tape on inhalation therapy demonstration. The presentation was made last fall with the cooperation of Northwest Community Hospital. Two tapes were made for Harper's practical nursing students.

Miss Heiny is enthusiastic about the learning resources at Harper. She says, "We do have an opportunity that many schools don't have. And we will only expand our film and materials beginning next fall because we're expanding the program from 80 to 120 freshmen."

May 11 Expanding Cultural Horizons. This program is designed to motivate the individual to enrich her life culturally by being introduced to the various art, music, dance, and other cultural events within reach of the northwest suburban resident. 1 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. Fee: $5.00.

For further information, phone 359-4200, extension 248.

J. Huebner Distributing Co. of Arlington Heights sponsors $500 scholarship

Mr. J. A. Huebner, president of the Joe Huebner Distributing Company, Arlington Heights beer distributor, has advised Harper College that he will provide a scholarship of $500 annually for a two-year period for a Harper student interested in sales and marketing, business administration, or education. Applicants should have a "C" average or better and reside in district No. 54 in Schaumburg township.

Harper has also been told by Mr. Huebner that he would like to provide a second scholarship of $500 annually for two years, with the same qualifications, at the end of the two-year period.

The scholarship will cover tuition, fees, books, and supplies.

Further information may be obtained by calling the Office of Placement and Student Aids at Harper.

Board approves eight new career programs

Eight new career programs in the technical/vocational area will be added to the Harper curriculum in fall, 1972 pending approval by the Illinois Board of Higher Education. The Harper Board of Trustees approved the new programs at a meeting on March 9.

Two-year associate degree programs in Air Conditioning and Refrigeration, Medical Office Assistant, Legal Technology, and Medical Technician were approved along with one-year certificate programs in Air Conditioning and Refrigeration, Medical Transcriptionist, Legal Technology, and Operating Room Technician.

Community Counseling Center can help students, parents decide career goals

Harper's Community Counseling Center can help break the deadlock which often occurs between students and their parents when decisions have to be made regarding college or job goals.

Dr. Gary Rankin, Center director, points out that the counseling services offered at Harper can help the high school senior with two major decisions. "Should he go to college or not? And if so, what type of college?" Secondly, if not, what kind of occupation would be advisable?"

Dr. Rankin gives an example of how the Center can help when parents and a student are in disagreement.

"One family," he said, "was having a problem because the father wanted his son to attend law school. The student liked music, but he had also done well in other subjects."

Dr. Rankin continued, "The impasse reached the point where the father said he wouldn't pay for a private music school. The student's mother, tired of the hassles, contacted the Harper Community Counseling Center, and tests of her son's abilities, interests, aptitudes, and personality characteristics were given.

"The counselor explained to the parents that their son was highly motivated toward a career in music, and that there was more to consider in making a career decision than just ability."

An agreement was reached, and the student chose a music school from among those listed in the Center's large college catalog collection. There is no obligation for an initial counseling session at the Center. If a student decides to take the recommended tests, fees could run from $60 to $85, Dr. Rankin said.

The first battery of tests help in showing ability and aptitude toward college or an occupation.

Additional tests could indicate the type of college or the kind of occupation which would best suit the student.

If for some reason a student is unable to complete high school, the General Educational Development (G. E. D.) tests administered at Harper can make possible the equivalent of a high school diploma and admission to college.

Community Counseling services are available to adults of all ages who are considering changing jobs, entering a new career, or going back to school.

This service of Harper College, now in its second year, is part of the community college's extension services to the constituency composed of residents of junior college district No. 32.

Time and $ invested in college education pay off in better jobs, higher earnings

A college education is still a good investment, in spite of rising costs.

Money invested in higher education pays off in increased earnings, brighter job prospects, and intangible cultural and social benefits, according to an article which appeared in the fall issue of Occupational Outlook Quarterly entitled, "Does A College Education Pay?"

The article cited Census Bureau statistics which show that men between 25 and 34 who had an elementary school education earned an average of $5,611 a year, while high school graduates the same age earned $7,533. College graduates averaged $9,374.

These 1968 statistics also showed that lifetime earnings were $211,005 for men with eight years of school or less, $371,984 for those with a high school diploma, and $607,921 for male college graduates.
